

School Children Teach Immigrants Language

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—The scriptural dictum that "a little child shall lead them" is being applied 10,000-fold in Americanization of New York's east side immigrants.

Its practical demonstration was described by Harry H. Schlact, head of the commission on immigrant aid at Ellis island, who has conceived an unique plan to protect newcomers from exploitation by their unscrupulous predecessors and radicals.

Through the downtown chamber of commerce, membership of which is limited to foreign-born merchants, bankers and other business men who have gained wealth in this country, Mr. Schlact has developed the idea of placing each immigrant family—fresh from the bewilderment of official red tape and the fantastic New York skyline—in the custody of an American, or Americanized school girl. Ten thousand of such girls are spending their evenings and spare hours infusing their charges with American ideas and the rudiments of the English language.

Stimulated not only by innate interest in the quaint dejected and often victimized and disillusioned seekers of new homes but also by rewards from the chamber of commerce for meritorious results, these girls can be seen every evening, by dim lights, spelling out c-a-t, r-a-t and other simple words to enraptured old patriarchs, scarcely aware that they are transplanted in a strange and yet not dissimilar country from that whence they came at such a sacrifice.

Home Rule Act Status Has Not Yet Been Decided

(By Associated Press)
DUBLIN, Ireland, Mar. 1.—Though the Sinn Feiners generally reject the home rule act, their organization has not yet officially determined its line of tactics in relation to it.

The chief secretary, Sir Horace Greenwood, and the high officials are busy with plans for putting the act into force in the south, and are exploring the possibilities of finding candidates who will face the risk of the polls. This compels Sinn Fein to decide what it will do, and interviews with well-known Sinn Feiners reveal three distinct currents of opinion.

seats and, having won most of them, refuse to attend the Dublin parliament. This would put the government to the necessity of replacing the duly elected representatives of the country by nominated men who would, under the act, have all the powers of the parliament.

A third, but very small body of Sinn Feiners are of the opinion that they should not secure election but undertake the work of government in the new parliament, and use the position to extract extended powers.

Between these rival views Sinn Fein must shortly decide, and there is no doubt that the official decision will be obeyed.

There is a strong view among all sections of nationalists that the fairest way for the government to test Irish opinion on the new act would be to submit it by referendum to the whole people. Leading Sinn Feiners have expressed themselves as quite willing that this course should be taken, and are confident that in southern Ireland the verdict for its rejection would be almost unanimous.

LACK ENGINES AND CARS FOR MOVING FOOD

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, March 1.—Lack of locomotives and freight cars to transport food and other supplies is one of the worst features of the distressing situation which prevails in eastern and southern Europe, says M. Hotovec, the Czechoslovak minister for foreign trade, who has been visiting in London.

WANT COLLEGE MEN FOR JOBS AS POLICEMEN

(By Associated Press)
BERKELEY, Cal., March 1.—University of California students are being urged by Chief of Police August Vollmer to take examinations for posts on the Berkeley police force. There are already six university students on the force and more are wanted.

Women as well as men are wanted on the eligible lists for positions in the department, the women to do stenographic work. The police work can be performed outside of classroom hours.

"No single individual in any community has greater opportunity to render real service than the sympathetic, intelligent and trained policeman," Chief Vollmer said in announcing examinations.

We want men who are energetic, alert, courageous and humane. They must have self-control and never be unfair, rude, passionate or officious. They must be able to grasp the fundamental principles of crime prevention and have the ability to co-operate with social service agencies to curb poverty and unemployment.

Regardless of what people have thought of policemen in the past, the fact is that the policeman of the future is a combination of the physician, lawyer, diplomat, social worker, scientist and priest.

Prompt and courteous service is assured; prices right, too.
